Company Activities

Jacobsen Chairs is a manufacturing company set up in 1989, to manufacture chairs for the commercial and domestic markets, with particular emphasis on ergonomics and back support.

Environmentally Superior Products Project

The aim was to produce a chair that would be environmentally friendly during the manufacturing of the chair, the life of the chair and the recycling of the chair.

Environmental Benefits

There were two main areas focused on. The first was the materials and the processes used in the manufacturing with an emphasis on environmentally friendly materials and those with a recycling factor built in. The second area was on the life extension of the product. We designed the chair in such a way that it is possible to replace or upgrade almost every part of the chair on site. The benefits of this are that the chair will stay in circulation longer and thus reduce the need to recycle the chair before its time.

Commercial Benefits

People are generally concerned with the environment and will do whatever they can to improve it if it is made easy for them. Our chair will not cost any more than a normal chair so it gives us an edge on imported, less environmentally friendly chairs.
